My Approach

It's my belief that a high-energy, hyper-focused collaborator who can communicate passionately is integral to the success of any music project. Over the last 15 years I've worked to develop an engaging style that sets a high creative standard while elevating those around me to perform at their best. My work in theater, film, and cruise line entertainment has exposed me to the inner workings and varying challenges faced in the ever-changing music and theater landscape as well as influenced how I approach inevitable problem solving required in any creative process.
